Work experience_

From January 2013 to March 2015_

Web developer @Codegent (LONDON) Codegent is a digital product studio running Twilert.com amongst other things. At Codegent, I got the chance to work on e-commerce websites such as lookwhatwefound.co.uk, ilumi.com and tepilo.com (using CodeIgniter as the PHP framework and Sagepay/Stripe as payment systems), built the new Twilert.com website and the first version of Vizibl.co with AngularJS, built a few RESTful APIs and worked on other websites such as selinascott.com or ur7s.com. <http://www.codegent.com>

From June 2011 to December 2012_

Web developer @R'Fidelity, Rentabiliweb group (PARIS) Subsidiary office running the Mailorama.fr and Cash-Back.com websites. My missions were to set up Zend projects (and to make a quickstart), to be lead developer for a website offering deals, to build REST APIs for mobile applications, to maintain PHP projects, and to write technical documentations. I was also in charge of all internal mobile developments (push notification system) and attended a training about Sencha Touch/ Phonegap. <http://www.rentabiliweb.com>

From July 2010 to June 2011_

Web developer @Oxent (PARIS) Start-up sponsored by "Petit Poucet" (a French VC), notably responsible for the organization of the ESWC (E-Sport World Cup). My main mission was to develop and maintain Gamersband, a social network for gamers.

From September 2007 to July 2010_

Web developer @Seegne (CAEN, FRANCE) a web agency. Hired at the end of my work placement, I was mainly responsible for the development of PHP back-ends (I created a custom framework for this purpose) and web design templating. <http://www.seegne.com>

From June 2007 to August 2007_ Intern @Seegne (CAEN, FRANCE)

From April 2006 to June 2006_ Intern @Institute of Technology (TRALEE, IRELAND)
